PRESS RELEASE

Free Upgrade for progeCAD IntelliCAD® 2007 to 2008 by CADDIT.net

CADDIT Pty Ltd Australia today announced CADDIT.net is pleased to announce that starting with Monday, August 27, all NEW purchases from that date onward of progeCAD professional 2007 made directly from CADDIT.net will qualify for a free electronic license upgrade to progeCAD 2008 when released for sale*. They can be reached via contact details on their website: <http://www.caddit.net> progeCAD is widely regarded to be an IntelliCAD release of the highest quality and standards, including progeSOFT-specific, value added features like:

- AutoCAD® 2007 DWG™ files support
- ACIS-based 3D solid modeling and rendering
- Read and Write all DWG™ or DXF™ format from v. 2.5 to 2007
- progeCAD Express Tools - The powerful tool that improve your productivity
- Polar Tracking - Keeps the line to exact angles automatically
- Refedit (Block In-Place Editing) - Edit locally individual objects within a Block
- Eattedit - Advanced Attribute editing
- PDF to DWG™ - Import PDF files to DWG™
- JPG print - Export drawing to JPEG format
- Plot Interface - Plot form AutoCAD® like
- Battman - Local editing of a block's Attributes
- Layer Manager - Save and Restore Layers configurations between sessions
- Advanced Hatching Options - More than 300 new Hatch patterns available

“This is an excellent opportunity. Users can upgrade free, and they get 2008 at 2007 prices”, said Ben Decker, director for CADDIT. With a reliable DWG™ / DXF™ reader-writer and IntelliCAD® AutoLISP® interpreter, progeCAD is a robust alternative to many Australian AutoCAD® users. Compared with AUD$1400+ price for AutoCAD LT®, CADDIT.net sets a price for progeCAD Professional at a modest AUD$475+GST. Users can download and trial the software for 30 days free.
